

The Reverse Side of EVP
By: Jeremy Pippin

One of the most common aspects of EVP is that there seems to be reverse meanings in the messages that are received. Some backwards meanings are the same as it is forward, and some are different as to complete a sentence. There has not been a great deal of research put into why EVP is received this way. Probably, because it brings to us a whole new area for research and understanding the forward meanings is enough to keep anyone busy, but it is in there and should be addressed.

John David Oates the founder of Reverse Speech teaches us that there is also a reverse side in physical response. They believe that it comes from the subconscious. Even one Seattle police department has used it as a lie detecting tool and confirmed it with DNA testing. When the accused are questioned the entire session is recorded then played back in reverse and slowed down to look for different answers from the subconscious. A training course is even offered to officers who want the extra studies.

Children from the ages of four months to fourteen months are known to communicate in reverse. The gibberish that we hear before they are able to speak in complete sentences are small words that can be made out when analyzed in reverse.

Now that there is a solid foundation for physical research of the subconscious, what does this say about EVP? Well, we could assume that backwards messages are from the entities subconscious. We know that the mind, soul, and conscious are not physical, so therefore can't be confirmed by science that they do indeed exist. On the other hand, our thoughts are also non-physical, but we do have them. Who's to say when we die the mind dies along with our body? If it is not physical to start with then why must it be lost after our time has been spent here on Earth?

While there is not much research put into EVP recorded in reverse, I have a few opinions of my own about the phenomena. When the messages are received with a forward and reverse meaning that are different I feel that it comes from the entities subconscious and they are indeed communicating with us telepathically. When messages are received with the forward and reverse meanings of the same, I think it is some type of disturbance in the veil that causes the words to become mirrored by somehow reflecting with our dimension.

Whatever the case may be, the reverse side of EVP is a whole new area of research and deserves our attention. It presents us with a whole new area in EVP to work with. There can even be reversing machines (or tape recorders) that may better help us understand how this occurs, not to mention EVP can be easily reversed with audio editing software. So, if you have not looked to the reverse side of EVP, please bring your files back up because you never know what is on the other side.
